Letters are now whirled between Paris and Berlin through a pneumatic tube 700 miles in length, at the rate of twenty miles a minute.

The Chinese propose celebrating the 66th birthday of the Dowager Empress in grand style. They propose raising 30,000,000 taels to give the old lady a grand send off. Thirty millions taels is about $45,000,000.

The House of Representatives committee on appropriations will report favorably a bill appropriating $150,000 for a government exhibit at the Atlanta Exposition and $50,000 for a building.

"Gail Hamilton" regrets to see women engaged in an effort to secure the ballot for themselves. She looks upon it as a "movement backward toward men and mastodons, the miocene hipparion and eocene anchitherium."

There are four candidates for the Democratic congressional nomination in the sixth district. They are: Hon. S B. Alexander, present incumbent, and Messrs. John D. Bellamy, of New Hanover, J. A. Lockhart, of Anson, and J. T. Legrand, of Richmond.

The North Carolina Teachers' Assembly, which is the largest State educational organization in the United States, will meet in its eleventh annual convention in its own handsome building at Morehead City, N. C., on June 19, and continue in session until July the 3rd.

There is some danger of a war between England and France, says the Wilmington Messenger. The new French Ministry is thought to be very hostile to England. We hope there will be found enough of wise statesmanship and Christian sentiment to avoid such a bloody arbitrament.

Crime of serious character seems to have almost completely disappeared from Ireland. It is a pretty custom in that country when there is no criminal business to go before the juries to present a pair of white gloves to the Quarter Sessions Judges In Limerick and in several other parts of Ireland, even in wicked County Clare, the Judges have received their gloves recently.

In appreciation of the extraordinary courtesies shown to Admiral Erbin, Capt. Mahan and the other officers of the United States Steamer Chicago by the British officials and public, Acting Secretary McAdoo on the application of the Chicago's officers authorized them to give a suitable banquet to their British friends in return, which was done. The expense will be borne by the Navy Department.

Northern capitalists have completed arrangements for the erection and operation of a large cotton oil mill at Meridian, Miss. The mill will have a capacity of 100 tons per day, and will be in perfect running order by the 1st of September. Meridian has already one of the largest oil mills in the South, but the new mill will be operated independent of any combination with other mills.

Texas has increased her cotton crop ten per cent this year. One county that never raised cotton before has 10,000 acres in cotton this year. The crop in that state alone promises to be 2,250,000 bales. The high price of cotton seed has caused this stampede to cotton. Prices will very probably be very low. Bolls are forming rapidly, and Texas will get the full and probably exclusive benefit of the present rise in prices and demand for cotton.

It is reported that cotton raising is being pushed with great industry and success in Turkestan, and that a large crop will be made this year. This is the account given by M. Blane, agent of the Geographical Society of Paris, who has been traveling through that of the world. The Russian Government sent agents to the United States to collect samples of seeds of all varieties, and then, by experiment, determined what it would be best to plant in that country.

The attendance at the Midwinter Fair in San Francisco has averaged a trifle over 13,000 daily from the opening. The reduction of admission to 25 cents on Sunday and in the evening has not doubled attendance, as advocates of this policy said it would. The hard times and the high cost of transportation combined to limit the number of visitors, but, considering the scattered population of the coast, a million and a half visitors up to date is a better showing than the World's Fair made in the same time.

The following are the total net receipts of cotton at all ports since September 1, 1893: Galveston, 999,697; New Orleans, 1,838,222; Mobile, 213,378; Savannah, 949,401: Charleston, 404;652; Wilmington, 189,604; Norfolk, 486,741; Baltimore, 62,429; New York, 117,117; Boston, 98,303; Newport News, 49,465; Philadelphia, 63,241; West Point, Va., 237,448; Brunswick, 69,760; Nelasco, 8,292; Port Royal, 75,016; total, 5,862,66. Deduct 66,963 bales from net receipts since September 1st. Total since September 1st (corrected) 5,795,697 bales.

M. Turpin, the inventor of melinite, and other explosives, and machines for killing people, has raised a commotion in France, says the Wilmington Star, by selling a "war chariot" of his invention to the German Government for $1,000,000. The "chariot" is operated by electricity, and will automatically fire 25,000 bullets, and play havoc with everything in front of it. The French denounce him as a traitor for this, but Turpin defends himself by saying that he gave France the first whack at it, and that the Minister of War not only refused, but treated him in a very unministerial way.

There is no part of a campaign, says the Whiteville News, in which the people should take a livelier interest than that just preceding the conventions, when the party's candidates are being selected. Principles amount to a great deal, but unless we have men who will put them into active operation they are a dead letter. Thinking people are no longer heard to say that they would "vote for the devil on the Democratic ticket." So if we want to get their votes we must see to it that His Satanic Majesty is kept in the background. The people must have a hand in selecting the men for whom they vote.

ZEBULON BAIRD VANCE.

BY THOMAS C. RADHAM, EDENTON, N. C.

[From the Newbern Journal.

Your bright garlands lay,
Oh ye sons of the State!
The Laurel and Bay
On the grave of the great.
He needs not the Granite's imposing decree,
His deeds are enshrined in the hearts of the free,
In the niches of honor his face and his name
Shall awaken new glory in the Temples of fame.

Then immortelles bring,
Oh ye daughters so true!
In the flower of spring
Your off'rings renew.
To his own mountain home—to the land where the eye
Looks aloft 'till it reach from the peak to the sky—
Where the soldier of Buncombe now sleeps 'neath the sod,
That in gladness from boyhood his firm foot hath trod,

Illumine the pathway
That leads to his grave,
Let the glory of day
Ever shine o'er the brave.
When war in its fury had sacked our loved land,
And hunger and cold thinned our brave little band,
Whose heart was first moved by our torture and pain?
But the Vance we all love in mem'ry again?

Oh! bring ye a tear
From the Soldier away—
And lay on the bier
Of our hero to-day.
For the old North State, in the zenith of pride,
Was never so great as with Vance by her side—
With her treasures in peace or her hardships in war,
None were ever so true as our loved Governor.

Oh! follow him on
Through the labyrinth of fate—
With his bright armor on
'Midst the strong and the great.
Genius and courage with candor and truth—
The grasp of conviction and firmness of youth
Marked his brilliant career in each public station
As the Patriot true—and pride of the Nation.

As stars remain true
In their orbits at night—
So Vance ever knew
The pathway to right,
To honor and wisdom—his counsels ever drew—
The assemblies of men—and marshalled them too.
An heritage rich thou hast left to thy race,
By precept—example and eminent grace.

Ennobled! Exalted!
By virtue of thee—
How grateful thy people,
And country must be!
The impress of grandeur through ages shall roll
'Till it speaks to each heart—each mind and each soul
Through the light of thy precepts old standards shall reign,
'Till Patriotism towers triumphant again

We have laid him to sleep
In the land of his pride—
Where the river's swift sweep
By the steep mountain side,
Gleams bright in the sunlight—like his own sparkling glory
Ever sung by its ripple—ever told with his story
When his people shall come from far and from near
To lay at his feet an affectionate tear.

California Harvest Scene.

The accompanying illustration shows a scene on a large California wheat ranch in harvest time. Many men not so very old can easily remember when the best known manner of harvesting wheat anywhere in the world was by means of the "cradle" swung from right to left by one man, who thus cut the grain and laid it in a continuous swath, whence it was raked up and bound in sheaves by the man who followed close behind the cradler with a wooden-toothed hand rake. Two men thus equipped could cut and bind from two to five acres in one day, but to keep up the work for a week or two in succession with an average of three acres per day was called a good record. To be sure, the "cradle" was a vast advance over the sickle which preceded it, and which had been used in harvest for thousands of years, but to the wheat farmers of to-day both are as antiquated as the ark of Noah.

The machine here shown is the latest triumph in harvesting machinery known to the harvest fields of California. It is a marvel of power and efficiency and will no doubt long remain at or very near the head of the list. The great traction engine which moves the whole weighs twelve tons. It moves at a speed of three and a half miles per hour, cuts a swath twenty-five feet wide and harvests a hundred acres per day. It not only cuts the grain, but threshes it, sacks it and piles it in heaps of nine sacks each. Only eight men are required to do all this, and they work under the shade of an awning. The cost of such a train of ponderous harvest machinery is $6,000; and it is cheaper, in proportion to its capabilities, than was the old-fashioned cradle at $5. To do the same amount of work by animal power would require at least fifty horses and also a great many more men. It will thus be seen that although the first cost of such a harvesting machine is greater, it is after all, the least expensive appliance that exists for harvesting large areas.

To show the absolute necessity of such machinery in these days of enormous production of cereals, we have only to cite the fact that the farmers of the United States harvested last year 34,629,418 acres of wheat. Of this immense acreage 2,620,490 acres were harvested in California, 2,768,-092 in Kansas, 2,683,904 in Ohio, 2,523,362 in Indiana, 1,348,462 in Illinois, 3,197,363 in Minnesota, 2,414,281 in South Dakota and 2,753,980 in North Dakota. The entire wheat crop of the United States in 1893 was 396,131,725 bushels.

THE PLATFORM DEFIED.

Bank Tax Repeal Defeated.

On Thursday last, the House proceeded to the consideration of the bill to repeal the State bank tax, under the arrangement agreed to the day before.

Mr. Turner, Democrat, of Georgia, spoke in favor of repeal. He contrasted favorably to the first, the availability and desirability of State bank and national bank issues of currency. What was more vital to the best interests of the country, in his opinion, however, was the passage of the tariff bill, and he pictured a hand impatient to put in motion the machinery that would produce an era of prosperity in the country.

Mr. Meikeljohn, Republican, of Nebraska, speaking of the probable conditions under which State bank issues would be made in case the system were rehabilitated, called attention to a bank law passed by the Georgia Legislature last December in expectation of the repeal of the State bank tax. That law, he said, authorized a bank with one-quarter of its capital in national bonds, one quarter in State, county or municipal bonds first, and one-half currency, to issue, upon the deposit of the bonds with the State Treasurer, notes to the amount of three times the security.

The subject was further discussed by Messrs. Bingham, Republican, of Penn., Hall, Democrat, of Missouri; Robinson, Republican, of Pennsylvania, and Cockran, Democrat, of New York. The latter denounced the national bank currency as the worst that could be conceived, and ought not to be allowed to stand. But as long as it did exist, Mr. Cockran said, he did not believe in attempting to make a tributary system. Believing in the platform's demand for a repeal of the State bank tax, he did not believe in doing so hap-hazard. Present conditions would have to be changed before it could be done safely.

The debate closed at 2:10 o'clock and a vote was taken on the Cox amendment to repeal the 10 per cent. tax outright. The vote was announced as follows: yeas, 102; nays, 172. The announcement was received with slight applause.

The following is the vote in detail on Mr. Cox's amendment to repeal the 10 per cent. State bank tax law:

The substitute of the committee on banking and currency for the original Brawley bill suspending the operation of the 10 per cent. tax as to the issues of certificates, etc., by clearing houses and other organizations last year, merely changing the verbiage so as to make it more explicit, was defeated on a viva voce vote.

Then the original bill was lost. This was the end of ten days debate, and a vote was occasioned some surprise, and the announcement was received amid much confusion and applause.

Quaint old customs still survive in many parts of England. In Ely place, Holborn, a watchman cries the hours nightly with the same formula in use of centuries past: "Past one o'clock, and a cold, wet morning," or "a warm pleasant morning" as the case might be.

An Electrical Wonder.

Cassier's Magazine.

Raising iron or steel to a welding heat by plunging it into a bucket of water is one of the more recent electrical accomplishments which has excited no end of interest and admiration. The phenomenon was illustrated experimentally to thousands of spectators at the Columbian Exposition last year, but instead of being simply an interesting scientific demonstration, as it was there regarded, it has latterly been applied in a practical way as an every-day substitute for the time-honored forge fire. At the Edison Illuminating Co's. station at Brooklyn, N. Y., the "water-pail forge," as it has been aptly named, can be seen in daily operation, and the practical value of its astonishing performance has there been demonstrated beyond all doubt. Across the top of an ordinary wooden water bucket rests a bar of iron, to which the negative pole of a dynomo is attached by a wire. The other pole of the machine is connected with a plate of copper in the bottom of a bucket. To bring the end of any desired bar of iron or steel to a welding heat, all that is necessary is to rest it against the bar across the top of the bucket and dip the point into the water within. This closes the electric circuit, and in a few moments the end of the bar becomes hot enough to be readily worked under a blacksmith's hammer. What actually happens when the circuit is closed is this: The water in the bucket, under the action of the passing current, immediately begins to decompose into its component gases, oxygen and hydrogen, and the latter adheres in a film to the submerged part of the metal bar, protecting it from contact with the surrounding water. If now the electric current were not very strong it would cease to flow, because of the break in the circuit made by the hydrogen accumulation. With a sufficient strength of current, however, the resistance of the hydrogen envelope is overcome, and in doing this heat is developed; sufficient in this case to quickly bring the end of the bar to a white heat. That the water does not quench the bar is readily explained by the fact that the hydrogen film prevents the two from coming into actual contact. How great the possibilities of this water-pail forge are can easily be imagined. The ordinary forge and blower and the necessarily attendant coal and smoke and dust are all entirely dispensed with, and the outfit may be a likely feature of the ideal blacksmith shop of the near future.

State Banks.

Red Springs Scion.

We suggest to the voters of this country, that if the present Congress fails to repeal the tax on State banks, that we all go to work and elect men who will repeal it. By far, a large majority of our fellow citizens want State banks and we know the power to elect such men as favor the measure lies with the people. This rot about "fiat money" just means for certain individuals to control the money in this country. In a State bank system the money of our country would be based on the real worth, not on the indebtedness of the country. When a merchant holds a mortgage on a neighboring farmer, he in a measure owns that farmer and can, in a sense, dictate to that farmer as to what disposition of the property which the farmer calls his own.

So the bondholder has a right to say to the general government what shall be the amount of money in circulation. The "honest" money of to-day means money issued by the consent of the rich bondholder. "It takes money to make money" is an old saying but in this country a man is not allowed to use his wealth except as consent is given by national bankers. We mean by this that the volume of currency is expanded or contracted as they may deem proper. It sometimes so happens that the holding of a dollar brings a greater gain than the investing, for this reason we have panics. State banks would remedy this because they be institutions of the people not of part of the people.

The Czar and his Whims.

Atlanta Constitution.

The Czar of Russia is making himself the talk of Europe just at present.

He has recently issued an order depriving his ministers of the power to appoint subordinates. He has stripped them of their official patronage and has assumed absolute control of even the details of every department of government.

The other day the czar expressed the opinion that his father had acted hastily in emancipating 20,000,000 serfs and intimated that it had led to much of the present agitation in Europe. This bold utterance connot fail to still further inflame the masses who are already in full sympathy with the socialists and nihillists.

Yet this remarkable ruler occasionally exhibits qualities worthy of the highest admiration. A year or two ago he visited the cholera hospitals and gave millions of dollars out of his private purse to relieve the famine sufferers. He scorns falsehood, and this trait of his character is so well known that a prince who was recently summoned to his presence for making a false report committed suicide rather than face his royal master.

But it is not safe to risk the whims of so absolute an autocrat, and it may be that this republic has made a mistake in entering into the present treaty of extradition with Russia. Under the terms of the treaty we may be called on to surrender refugees who will be put to death or sent to Siberia for simply writing or speaking their sentiments.

Fooled the Judge.

Lord Hannen, the eminent English judge, recently deceased, is said never to have been fooled but once. He excused a juror on the plea that the latter wished to attend a funeral. The juror proved to be an undertaker.

GENERAL BRADDOCK'S SASH.

The Blood-Stained Relic Found by ex-President Taylor's Daughter.

Philadelphia Record.]

A private letter received in Washington from Winchester, Va., mentions the interesting fact that Mrs. Bettie Taylor Dandridge, the only surviving daughter of ex-President Zachary Taylor, who resides in that city, has just discovered, after long search, the sash of General Braddock, which was long supposed to have been lost. This sash was sent by General Gaines to General Taylor just after his brilliant achievement on the Rio Grande, in 1846. The historian says:

"General Taylor took the sash and examined it carefully. It was of unusual size, being quite as large when extended as a common hammock. In the meshes of the splendid red silk that composed it was the date of its manufacture, '1707,' and, although it was 140 years old, save where the dark spots stained it with the blood of the hero who wore it, it glistened as brightly as if it had just come from the loom. Upon the unusual size of the sash being noticed, General Worth, who had joined the party in the tent, mentioned that such was the old-fashioned style, and that the soldier's sash was intended to carry, if necessary, the bearer from the field of battle. It was mentoned in the conversation that after General Ripley was wounded at Lundy's Lane, his sash, similar in form, was used as a hammock to bear him from the field, and that in it he was carried several miles, his body swaying between the horses to which the ends of the sash were securely fastened."

Mrs. Dandridge found the valuable relic carefully wrapped up in linen and labeled "Braddock's Sash." It was found with her father's two military sashes. Mrs. Dandridge was formerly Mrs. Bliss, and presided over the White House in the short year her father was President. On the death of General Taylor all of his personal effects were placed in his army chest and remained there until the death of his widow they were sent to Winchester, Va., the home of Mrs. Dandridge.

The sash is of very dark red, soft silk, some 12 feet long by 4 in width, and near the centre are three dark black stains each as large as a woman's hand, the marks of General Braddock's life-blood.

Letter from Georgia.

WINONA, GA., June 3, 1894.

Maj. E. J. Hale, Fayetteville, N. C.:

DEAR SIR—I arrived home safe and found everything going on well. Business seems to be in a stir from daylight until dark. You can hear the hum of the saws and ring of the hammer all day—plenty of work to do. I do not want to persuade any one from your town, but I wish some of the boys that I saw sitting around with nothing to do were out here; they could get plenty of work to do and good pay for it.

Well, I will give you a few items of Dooley county: Dooley county is the largest and best county in the wire grass section. For many years this was one of the most inaccessible counties in the State. It contained an intelligent and law-abing people who raised their own supplies and pursued the even tenor of their way without invasion from outside sources. They marketed their cotton forty miles away, and their only transportation facilities consisted of vehicles drawn by horses, mules and oxen, and even under these unfavorable circumstances many of the citizens were in good financial condition and some of them grew to be rich. Dooley is now one of best educated and prosperous counties in Georgia. Vienna is the county seat—it is a thriving little city with a population of 1,000.

Cordelia has kept pace with the growth of the wire-grass section, and from a cotton field five years ago has developed into a city of over 2,000 inhabitants. It is the centre of trade for a large number of saw mill and turpentine men on the Georgia Southern and Florida, the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery, and the Albany, Florida and Northern Railroads. There are in successful operation here five large planing mills, a cotton factory, guano factory, ice factory, iron foundry, soda water bottling works and other smaller industries, two banks, four hotels including the Suwanee House with sixty rooms and modern conveniences, and two newspapers.

I am going to stroll back to Fayetteville some of these days to see the boys.

Your old friend,

Euclid's Historic Words.

Boston Herald.

Euclid, who is sometimes called the father of mathematics, taught this subject in the famous school at Alexandria. Being asked one day by the king of Egypt (Ptolemy Soter) whether he could not teach him the science in a shorter way, Euclid answered in words that have been memorable ever since, "Sire, there is no royal road to learning." Not many scraps of conversation have lived, as this reply has, for nearly 2,200 years.

Life's often lost from little ills
Which might be saved by little pills.
That is to say, if you suffer from biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia or torpid liver use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

Harper's Publications.

Recent numbers of Harper's Magazine have been unusually strong in fiction. Mr. du Maurier's "Trilby," which has been running since January, and will be concluded in the August number, is attracting more attention than any other magazine serial that has been published for many years. Brander Matthews's "Vignettes of Manhattan" have given in short stories characteristic aspects of New York life, and not since Bret Harte wrote his first tales of California life has the newer West been studied so sympathetically or with such strong appreciation of its picturesque and dramatic side as by Owen Wister, whose "Em'ly," "Balaam and Pedro," "The Promised Land," and "A Kinsman of Red Cloud" have appeared in Harper's within the last few months. A new story by Mr. Wister, "Little Big-Horn Medicine." appears in the June Magazine. The May and June numbers contain a story of Kentucky life in the late "fifties," which recalls the manner of George William Curtis in his delightful "Prue and I." The April Harper's printed eight complete short stories, the May six, the June has four, and it is announced that the July number will include six, besides the first chapters of Charles Dudley Warner's novel of New York life, to which he has given the attractive title, "The Golden House."

"The Japanese Spring," by Alfred Parsons, which appears in the June Harper's, is the first of a series of four articles on the Japanese seasons. It is embellished with twenty-three pictures by the author, and the publishers promise that the illustrations for the remaining instalments will be equally handsome and effective.

A GLANCE AHEAD.—The July Harper's Magazine will open with the first chapters of "The Golden House," a novel of New York, by Charles Dudley Warner. The illustrations have been made by W. T. Smedley, and both story and pictures reflect the life of 1894. "The Havard and Yale Boatrace," by Dr. W. A. Brooks, will tell the story of the most important event in college aquatic sport, with effective illustrations by Charles Dana Gibson. There will be an entertaining article on "The President at Home," by Henry Loomis Nelson, with pictures, including a portrait of Lincoln standing alone at night on the portico of the White House. Another attractive feature will be "The United States Naval Gun Factory," by the Superintendent, Commander Theodore F. Jewel, illustrated from sketches.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE—Harper's Magazine for June contains 84 pictures. Few books have so many. But the charm of these pictures is not in their number; it is in their beauty and variety, as well as their appropriateness to the text.

Harper's Weekly.—Perhaps the shortest of short stories is a cartoon; for, at a glance, and sometimes without a single word, it must truly characterize all the people it depicts and make sure that you do not miss the moral. The political story of a week or of a month is told in the cartoons that from time to time stand upon the first page of Harper's Weekly.

HARPER'S BAZAR—Among the features of Harper's Bazar for June will be the "Story of a Garden," told in letters by Elizabeth Bisland Wetmore, a new series of "Coffee and Repartee papers, by John Kendrick Bangs, and letters from Paris, giving the fashions and gossip of that capital.

Why the Prince of Wales Laughed.

Tit-Bits.

The Prince of Wales is a very hearty laugher. On one occasion his Royal Highness laughed very heartily at a Hindu schoolboy. The youngsters had been drilled into the propriety of saying "your Royal Highness," should the Prince speak to any of them; and when the heir-apparent accosted a bright-eyed lad, and, pointing to a prismatic compass, asked, "What is this?" the youngster, all in a flutter replied: "Please, it's a royal compass your prismatic Highness," on which came peal after peal of royal "laughter without any control."

In North Carolina there are 33,280,000 acres of land, about 12,000,000 of which are in cultivation. Of this number 1,600,-000 acres are in cotton.

Queen Victoria celebrated her 75th birth day recently. She has been on the British throne 57 years.

Her Objections.

O maiden, thou art passing fair;
No charms with thine are worth comparing.
I love thee, yes, I vow, I swear:—
Said she, "I much object to swearing."

O, from my suit, love, do not shrink,
I feel thy bright eyes' fascination;
Intoxicating love-draughts drink—
Said she, "I hate intoxication"

If thou reject, my race shall end
Beneath the turf the earth embracing,
The last remains of thy fond friend—
Said she, "I hate the turf and racing."

But if he had taken with him as a present, a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, he would have been more successful in his suit. She doubtless owed many of the charms which captivated him to its virtues. For brightening woman's eyes, and giving her that healthy look so much admired by the opposite sex, it has no equal. Guaranteed to cure or benefit in all cases of "Female Weakness," irregularity, painful periods and kindred ailments, or money paid for it returned.

ACCIDENTAL DEATHS.

Caused by Carelessness.

The majority of people die sooner than they should. Evidence of this fact is growing daily. Waring says: "Disease is not a consequence of life; it is due to unnatural conditions of living—neglect, abuse, want." Dr. Stephen Smith, on the same subject, "Man is born to health and long life; disease is unnatural, death, except from old age, is accidental, and both are preventable by human agencies." This is almost invariably true of death resulting from heart disease. Careless over-exertion intemperate use of tea, coffee, tobacco, alcoholic or other stimulants are generally the causes of this difficulty, and indifference to its progress results in such en death, or long sickness ending in death By the newspapers it can be seen that many prominent and hundreds of persons in private life die from heart disease every day.

If you have any of the following symptoms: shortness of breath, palpitation, irregular pulse, pain or weakness in left side, pain in shoulder, side, or arm, swollen ankles, etc, begin treatment immediately for heart disease. If you delay, the consequences may be serious.

For over 20 years Dr. Franklin Miles, the eminent specialist, has made a profound study of heart disease, its causes and cure, and many of the leading discoveries in that direction are due to him. His New Heart Cure is absolutely the only reliable remedy for the cure of heart disease, as is proved by thousands of testimonials from grateful persons who have used it.

James A. Pain, editor of the Corry, Pa., Leader, states: "After an apparent recovery from three months of la grippe, I fell on the street unconscious from heart disease. In one month from that time I was unable to walk across my room, and my pulse beat from 85 to 116 times a minute. I then used Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and at once became stronger. After using six bottles I was able to work as usual and walk a mile every day, my pulse beating from 65 to 80. Dr. Miles' remedy is not only a preventive but a cure."

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six for $5 express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs. Dr. Miles' Pills, 25 cents. Free book at druggists, or by mail.

ON TRIAL.

Popular government is undergoing a severe strain just now. An enthusiastic and optimistic contemporary said the other day that the people had always ruled in the end. They may be said to have had their way in a certain sense. For example, if they had combined, the millions of subjects could always have subdued the small body of their rulers. Therefore, it may be argued, inasmuch as they didn't combine, it is plain that they preferred not to combine; and if they preferred not to combine when by combining they could have overthrown their rulers, it follows that their rulers ruled them in obedience to their will. Therefore they ruled their rulers!

Except in this way of looking at the matter, history teaches the reverse of our optimistic contemporary's assertion. With few exceptions men have been ruled more or less after the fashion of slaves from the beginning of the world, and three fourths of the world are ruled that way to-day. Before the advent of our Confederated Republic, as Washington styled it, the attempts at free government, notable as some of them were, represented but a small portion of the generations that have inhabited the earth, and the evanescent governments so established embrace but a small portion of its habitable area. The world looked upon our attempt as a huge experiment, but nevertheless as one made under circumstances more favorable than had ever before been possible. The inhabitants of the new republic were sprung from a race that had gone further on the road towards a rational freedom—that liberty restrained by law which is its boast—than any other; and emancipation from the dynastic environment of the old world left them free to work out the problem of self government if any people could. Government by party, which characterizes in a feeble way the more advanced of the Continental European nations, and in a more pronounced way the English motherland, in the nature of things reached its highest development here. In the nature of things; for parties do not exist in China, Persia, Russia or Turkey, but manifest themselves with decreasing feebleness as their existence is traced Westward from Austra-Hungary.

Upon the huge experiment thus inaugurated, the world, as we know, looked with interest, but not with unmixed confidence. Success, however, seemed to have crowned the experiment until the civil war again raised doubts of its continuance. At last, the triumph of the Democratic party, the party of the People, eighteen months ago, was universally regarded as restoring the equilibrium disturbed by the settlement of the slavery question.

This is a recital of trite things; but it is necessary, once in a while, to recur to them.

Hardly has the feeling of exultation which a restoration inspired, found due expression, when patriotic men are confronted with a condition of affairs more menacing to the perpetuity of our institutions than we have yet known. Party government—the vehicle of government which is indispensable to the system of self-government—seems to have failed. And it seems to have failed because in a square issue made in the effort to carry out the will of the party victorious at the polls, a considerable portion of that party's servants has deliberately joined with those of the party defeated at the polls in the successful defeat of the victorious party's will.

Surely this is a condition of affairs which goes to the root of human happiness as we Americans have been taught to understand it. If there be no remedy, freedom is at an end, the huge experiment a colossal failure.

Is there a remedy! It can come only through devising means to secure the obedience of those whom the party has chosen for its public servants.

Let the yet sovereign people, as the the time approaches for setting in motion the gigantic machinery through which popular government finds expression, ponder these things. If they will take them to heart, their liberties are still within their control. Not otherwise.

Moral.—In your nominating conventions, from primaries up, choose only those men whose past life is a GUARANTEE THAT THEY WILL NOT VIOLATE A TRUST.

Washington Letter.

From Our Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 11, 1894.

Senator Harris believes that he can reach the final vote on the tariff bill before next Saturday night, if every Senator who has promised to vote for the bill will stand by him to the extent of a little personal inconvenience and discomfort, and he has during the last 48 hours been trying hard to get them to agree. He has the promises of all the democratic Senators he has seen, but he had not up to this morning, owing to the absence of several democratic Senators and the sickness of Senators Gorman and McPherson, succeeded in getting the assurances of the quorum it will be necessary for him to have behind him to succeed in forcing a vote. It is now almost certain that the republican Senators have been wilfully deceiving the democrats in leaving them under the impression that they were on the eve of agreeing to name a day for taking the final vote. It is not probable that they will ever agree to set a date until forced to do so by the democrats. There is no earthly reason for continuing the debate beyond this week, yet the republicans are talking of keeping it up until the middle of July, and they will do it, too, if the democrats do not prevent it by keeping a quorum of their own present to shut them off.

There is much dissatisfaction among democrats in the House over the sugar schedule of the tariff bill as it has been adopted by the Senate, and the prediction is freely made by democrats that the House will never agree to it in its present shape. It is argued by its opponents that the tariff on refined sugar is prohibitive and will result in no possible benefit for anybody except the sugar trust and an attempt is now being made to organize the democrats in the House against it and in favor of free refined sugar.

The only one of the reciprocity treaties made under the reciprocity clause of the McKinley tariff law that was ever of any practical benefit in increasing the sale of American products abroad—that with Spain providing an exchange of certain products with Cuba and Porto Rico—will soon be abrogated by Spain. The State department has official information that the Spanish Cortes, will, by direction of the government, pass an act authorizing Cuba and Porto Rico to collect a transitory duty of 24 per cent on all articles now on the free list of the reciprocity treaty.

The House Commerce committee has decided that none of the Nicaragua canal bills before it were satisfactory, and has directed a sub-committee to prepare a new bill with these four objects in view: to prevent the payment to the present Nicaragua canal company of an excessive sum for its property and concessions; to keep speculators from profiting by the project; to provide for the issuance of United States notes for the cost of the construction of the canal rather than bonds, and to secure complete and permanent control to the the United States government. Members of the committee express the belief that a bill along these lines can easily be passed, and that it will be approved by the people of the country.

The overwhelming defeat in the House of the bill for the repeal of the tax on State bank currency is regarded as an indication that there will be no financial legislation at this session of Congress, although Representative Springer has not abandoned hope of getting action on his bill for a national currency.

Coxey and his two lieutenants were released from jail yesterday, having served out their terms and paid the $5, fines imposed upon two of them in preference to serving an additional ten days. The authorities refused to grant a permit for a parade, thus preventing a demonstration being made over their release.

Senator Walsh, of Georgia, made a hit with his bill providing for the establishment of a permanent exhibition of the industrial products and resources of all the States at the National Capital. Everybody talks in favor of it.

Senator Brice gave the charges against him in connection with the alleged sugar trust scandal a black eye when he wrote to the Senate investigating committee offering his own testimony and that of his clerks in Washington, New York and Ohio, to prove that he has not bought a share of sugar stock since he became a member of the Senate in 1891, and requesting his brokers to make known to the committee every stock transaction of his upon their books. In accordance with that request Mr. Chapman, a member of the New York firm of Moore and Sebley, stock brokers, testified that his firm had never bought any sugar stock for Mr. Brice, but he positively refused to answer questions concerning the business of his firm with other Senators. The committee will ask the Grand Jury to deal with Mr. Chapman. Nothing has so far been brought out by the committee reflecting upon the integrity of any Senator.

Independence, Not Democracy.

In his speech in the house last Monday Congressman Raynor, of Maryland, expressed views which are utterly irreconcilable with the time-honored democratic ideas of party organization, discipline and fealty. The Associated Press report says:

In conclusion, Mr. Raynor referred to the plank in the Democratic platform pledging the repeal of the tax upon state bank circulation. Its explicit character Mr. Raynor admitted; how it got there he did not know. But as far as he was concerned, the platform might as well have pledged a repeal of the ten commandments. "I do not know how it may be with others, but with me the time has not yet arrived when I have surrendered my conscience and my conviction to the keeping of a political convention. I utterly deny that it lies within the province or the jurisdiction of a convention to trammel me in the discharge of my duties by any such declaration as this. This bill to repeal the tax upon state bank circulation failed to pass at the last congress in a democratic house and now I am told that because some one slipped these words into the platform I was to be manacled like a slave and robbed of the greatest boon that a free man in these halls can claim, and that is the right to vote upon questions of public policy in accordance with the dictates of duty, that it lies not within the power of any man or set of men to shackle or trample upon. Diverging views of members of the democratic party upon financial matters," said Mr. Rayner, "which I hope soon to see taken out of politics, will necessitate the inquiry when a man declares himself to be a democrat, 'What kind of a democrat are you?'"

We shall not ask Mr. Raynor his own question. Mr. Raynor does not talk like a democrat. It is difficult to see how a man who prates so glibly about his conscience and his convictions can be willing to take part in democratic conventions and caucuses when he boldly announces his determination not to be bound by their action. He admits that the state bank plank is an explicit pledge, but declines to be bound by it because he is opposed to it and does not know how it got into the platform. What sort of Democracy is this?

Between the Democrats in the senate who oppose the income tax because it is not in the platform, and the democrats in the house who decline to be bound by an explicit pledge in the platform, the party is in a bad way. Such a situation is nothing short of political anarchy, so far as the democratic party is concerned.

It is a waste of time and labor to organize a party, hold conventions, and agree upon principles and a policy solemnly declared in a platform, if each member of the party is to have the right to repudiate any portion of the platform that does not suit him. There can be no efficient organization when the members are permitted to defy the will of the majority. If Mr. Raynor's ideas of loyalty and discipline had prevailed in the past the democrats would never have been able to oust the republicans and gain control of every branch of the government. There can be no harmony, united effort and successful work on the part of an organization without a concerted plan of action and perfect discipline. If the colonels, captains and privates of any army reserved the right to disobey the orders of their commanding generals and strike out independently for themselves the army would go to pieces. If the employes of a railroad disregard at their pleasure the rules of the road the result would come in the shape of disastrous collissions.

If discipline and unity are essential to the success of a political party it follows that the party must obey its supreme law—its platform. Party pledges must be carried out in good faith, or the party will be discredited.

The will of the majority, as expressed in the platform, must prevail or the end will be confusion and failure. If individuals are allowed to repudiate one pledge, others will repudiate other pledges, and in a short time the party will be held together by no common bond, and will be simply a crowd of disorderly and irresponsible individuals.

It may be an old-fashioned idea to attach so much importance to a party platform and to the redemption of its pledges, but if this be the case The Constitution is willing to be old-fashioned. It believes that democratic success can be achieved only by remaining loyal to the principles and policy of the party as formulated in its platforms, and by redeeming its pledges, and by submitting to the will of the majority as declared in party conventions. The ideas of Mr. Raynor are undemocratic and tend to the injury of the party.

University Commencement.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., June 9, 1894.

The University has just closed its 99th session with the most brilliant commencement in its history. The Campus, the College and the village of Chapel Hill were packed for three days with hundreds of visitors from a distance and thousands of people from Orange, Wake, Chatham and Durham counties. The back of the Campus was full of vehicles of all sizes, shapes and descriptions.

The commencement began with the Baccalaureate Sermon on Sunday. It was preached by Rev. F. J. Murdoch, of Salisbury, from the texts "What shall I do Lord?" and my "My course is Finished." It was a manly appeal to the young for a manly life; and was marked by strength, eloquence, learning and simplicity. The Literary Societies held the annual meetings Monday night, greeted old members and initiated honorary members.

The Board of Trustees at their annual meeting appointed a committee of five to investigate and report at the February meeting concerning the Greek letter fraternities.

"The Life and Character of Dr. Chas. F. Deems" was the subject of the oration before the alumni association Tuesday morning. It was delivered by Dr. F. L. Reid, and was a touching, eloquent and masterly delineation of one of North Carolina's most gifted divines.

The Senior Class Day exercises were held Tuesday afternoon and were the occasion of much fun and merriment. The class orator was H. H. Atkinson, of Asheville, the poet Jas. Sawyer, of Asheville, the historian T. B. Lee, of Mocksville, the prophet, L. E. Barnes, of Wilson. The singing of the class song closed the exercises. The Representatives of the Dialectic and Philanthropic Literary Societies held their annual contest in oratory Tuesday night; and the medal was won by H. H. Horne, of the Phi. Society. The other speakers were J. C. Eller, of Ashe county, A. S. Dockery, of Richmond county, Herbert Bingham, of Mebane, a son of Col. Wm. Bingham, L. C. Brogden, of Wayne, and J. O. Carr, from Duplin.

The Faculty reception in the Gymnasium Tuesday night was the most brilliant affair ever seen at the University.

Commencement Day proper was Wednesday, and it was a big day in every sense of the word. Thousands of people swarmed through the Campus of fifty acres and packed Memorial Hall to its full capacity.

The six best scholars of the class delivered graduating orations. They were: Thos. S. Rollins Asheville. Subject: Two Factors of Modern Civilization.

A. Caswell Ellis, Louisburg. Subject: Permanence in change.

E. E. Gillespie, Greensboro. Subject: A plea for the Scientific Education of the Teacher.

T. B. Lee, Mocksville. Subject: The State and the Child.

C. L. VanNoppen. Subject: The influence of Holland upon American Institutions.

W. F. Harding, Greenville. Subject: Truth and Poetry.

The Mangum medal for the best oration was won by C. L. VanNoppen.

The other graduates presented thesis on various subjects, embodying results of special research and study; some scientific, some literary, some philosophical, some historical, one thesis was on the "Artificial Production of Petroleum", another on "The Property Rights of Married Women as affected by the Laws of North Carolina", another on "Rousseau and his Emile", another on "Glaciation", another on "The Formation of the Atlantic Coast", another on "The origin and Rise of Civil Law", another on Nitrification." There were 31 graduates, as follows: 8 Bachelors of Arts, 7 of Science, 7 of Philosophy, 5 of Letters, 2 of Laws, one Master of Arts, and one Doctor of Philosophy. The Master of Arts was J. T. Pugh of Morrisville, who graduated last year. The subject of his thesis was "A Comparative Study of the Infinitive in the Satires of Horace and Persius". The Doctor of Philosophy was Chas. Baskerville; and his thesis was, "A Comparison of the Methods of Estimation and Separation of Zirconium."

Undergraduate honors were awarded to the following: Highest honors to H. H. Horne of the Junior Class and Darius Eatman of the Freshman Class. Eatman is a painter who has worked his way to College, and both his own character and the character of the University are shown in the fact that he was elected President of the largest, smartest and strongest class in the University. Horne too is a working boy, and he has literally mowed down honors for three years. Both boys are Baptists.

The medal for best essay by a graduate was awarded to G. R. Little; the D. G. Worth prize for best thesis in Moral Philosophy to L. M. Swink; the W. C. Kerr prize in Geology ($50.00 in cash) to Chas. H. White; the Holt Mathematical medal to A. B. Kimball; the Magazine Essay prize to H. H. Horne; the Chas. G. Hills History prize ($100.00 cash) to E. M. Wilson. The subject of Mr. Wilson's thesis was the "Congressional Career of Nathaniel Macon." It is a valuable historical document.

Greensboro Female College Commencement Exercises.

[Special Correspondence.]

GREENSBORO, N. C., June 8.

Greensboro has just emerged from another commencement as brilliant as has been held. That famous old institution, Greensboro Female College, has taken on new life under the management of Rev. F. L. Reid.

This year two Bishops, the Secretary of the Interior and a United States Senator were the drawing cards. The commencement proper began on Wednesday morning, Bishop Hargrove delivering the sermon to the graduating class, taking his text from Proverbs, "Her price is far above rubies." His sermon was a magnificent effort, and was entirely suited to the occasion. At times he rose to heights of eloquence that were sublime. He charmed the large audience that gathered to hear him.

On Wednesday evening was held the reunion of the Alumnae. The programme for the evening included selections of vocal and instrumental music and was carried out by the Alumnae of the College. Among those who sang were Misses Adelyn and Rosa Andrews, and Miss Mamie Robbins. The musical portion of the programme was enthusiastically received, and Miss Adelyn Andrews was an especial favorite. At the conclusion of the musical programme, Bishop Fitzgerald delivered the address to the Alumnae. His speech was full of anecdotes and reminiscence, humor and pathos, comparison of the old times when he was a boy with the time in which we live and move. The Bishop was born not forty miles from Greensboro, and the place possesses a local interest for him. His address was full of the natural wit that bubbles naturally from him.

On Thursday morning the class day exercises were held. The graduating class was composed of the following young ladies: Misses Carrie Olivia Allen, Bulus Bagby, Mariotte Blake Betts, Lular Carr, Mayme K. Gully, Emma Lowrey, Irene Elizabeth Mitchell, Fannie Closs Parker, Lillian Small, Jennie Harrison Watson, Mary Atkins, Mannie B. Baxter, Mary Oliver Black, Elizabeth Davis, Sudie Hunt, Edna McCrary, Nellie Eastwood Page, Maggie Eula Poindexter, Nelie Spence, Carrie Webster. Miss Parker was valedictorian and Miss Small was salutatorian. Miss McCrary read the Language Essay.

Senator Jarvis delivered the Literary Address at the conclusion of the class exercises. His subject was "To-Day." His speech abounded in imagery and was such an effort as might have been expected from our junior Senator.

Thursday evening witnessed the close of the commencement. It was the occasion of the annual concert, always a time of interest at this school. The programme was of a much higher grade than in usually found. Two numbers, vocal, solos, deserve especial mention. The solo by Miss Lola Miller McKinne. "How Could I Fain Have Slumbered", and the solo of Miss Jennie Harrison Watson, "Ernani, Fly With Me", were gems. These two young ladies have fine voices and will doubtless be heard from hereafter. Secretary Hoke Smith, Mrs. Smith and their little daughter were on the stage. Mr. Smith was called on for a speech. He addressed the young ladies on very much the same line he pursued in his speech at Chapel Hill, urging them to raise the Old North State to a higher educational and moral plane. His speech was received with much applause.

Thus closed probably the most successful session in the history of the College, and certainly the best commencement it ever afforded. J. W. J.

Manufacturers and the Gold Standard.

Atlanta Constitution.]

The manufacturers of cotton goods do not seem to be doing any better under the gold standard than the railways. The dry goods market, according to the reports of those who keep an eye on such matters, is not any livelier than the freight business.

The Fall River manufacturers have on hand 562,000 pieces of goods as against 6,000 in 1892. The Providence manufacturers have on hand 227,000 pieces as against none in 1892. In two centers, therefore, there are 789,000 pieces held in hand for which there is no demand, as against 6,000 pieces in 1892. This is a bad showing, but it fails to tell the whole story. There is no business of importance in the dry goods trade—we get our facts from the New York Financial Chronicle—and the outlook is so depressing that there are reports of impending stoppages of a number of mills that are running out of orders. They prefer to shut down rather than manufacture unsold goods.

The reason there is no business for the mills is because there is no demand for their goods. The reason there is no demand for their goods—the reason they are cutting down wages or preparing to shut up shop—is because the producers of the country whose prosperity sets all form of business in motion have been paralized by low prices. The reason there is low prices is because the purchasing power of the dollar has increased and is still increasing in value. The reason the purchasing power of the dollar is increasing in value is because it is measured in gold alone, and there is not enough gold on which to base a redeemable currency sufficient for the needs of the people.

A nation is compelled to cut its business out to fit the available supply of primary money. When that supply is limited, business will be limited. When it is scarce, business will practically come to a standstill, and prices of commodities cease to be remunerative. The railway business is coming to a standstill because trade is at a standstill. The cotton mills cannot sell their goods because the producers of the country are unable to buy. The profitable cultivation of the land is the source of all prosperity. When the products of the soil cease to fetch fairly remunerative prices then every other interest must suffer in proportion.

At this moment, after gathering and marketing the staple crops of 1893, the farmers of the United States are less able to buy by, $2,000,000,000 than if they had received the prices of 1866–73 for their great staple crops. Now two thousand million dollars is a pretty considerable sum when you come to reflect over it and examine it. Scattered around, as agriculture scatters it, it would keep a good many mills running and large numbers of people employed for a considerable time. It would put new life in every form of industry, and give trade a much-needed impulse. If the loss had fallen on the farmers alone they would have been wiped out of existence, financially speaking. But it has fallen on the whole country. Of all the people in the world the farmers alone are independent of trade and commerce. If every ship were sunk tomorrow—if every railway were destroyed—if commerce were brought to a sudden end—the farmers would still be able to earn their own living and make themselves fairly comfortable. They were at the birth of trade and commerce and they would survive their obliteration.

The money question, therefore, is less an issue for the farmers than for the business men, the manufacturers and the railway managers.

Nothing But Good.

GRAHAM, N. C., May 7, 1894.—I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be the best medicine in the world. It really does more than it is represented to do. I have taken it for that tired, worn out feeling, and my mother has taken it for headache and we both found almost instant relief. My father had 30 boils at one time and we urged him to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. At last, after much suffering and after trying various other medicines, he consented to take it and from the very first dose he felt better and has had no more boils since. He has gained thirty pounds in flesh. There is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla for indigestion, and nothing but good can be said of it. BERTA ALBRIGHT.

LIFE, HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

APALACHICOLA, FLA., Feb. 17, 1889.

MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.

DEAR SIRS—I will write to inform you that I was afflicted with Blood Disease. I tried one bottle of "P. P. P." and it gave me no relief. I was in bed seven months. I tried prominent physicians, and they could not do me any good. I saw your advertisement of P. P. P. in the Apalachicola Times, and thought I would try it. The bottle I got to-night makes seven or eight, and, oh, how good I feel. I have been up ever since and at my business, lumber inspector. You may publish this if you desire. I have informed my friends that P. P. P. is life, health and strength. M. F. BOLDEN.

OFFICE OF J. S. ROSAMOND.

MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.:

GENTLEMEN:—While in San Antonio, Texas, last spring, I saw your advertisement of P. P. P. (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium) in the paper for the cure of rheumatism, and thought I would try a bottle, finding such great relief from it, on my return home I had my druggist, Mr John McClellan to order me a supply. After taking, I think ten bottles, I have not had a pain or ache since, previous to that I suffered for twenty-five (25) years, and could not get the least benefit until I tried P. P. P., and therefore take pleasure in recommending it to all.

Yours truly,

J. S. ROSAMOND.

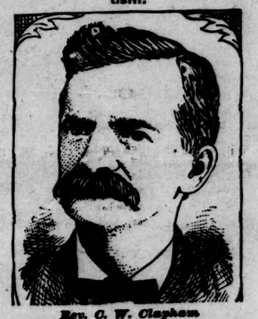
Found Cure in Hood's After Other Medicines Failed

After the Grip—Muscular Rheumatism.



Rev. C. W. Clapham

The following comes voluntarily from a highly esteemed clergyman of the M. E. church, pastor of the Church Creek circuit in Dorchester County, Maryland:

"C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"I feel it a duty to the public to send this certificate. I saw in a Philadelphia paper a letter from a man who had suffered from

Muscular Rheumatism

and had been restored by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I had the grip in the winter of '91 and '92 so severely that it deprived me of the use of my arms so that my wife had to dress and undress me, and when away from home I had to sleep in my clothes. I tried five doctors and not one accomplished anything. Then I saw the letter alluded to and determined to try

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla CURES

Hood's. Before I had taken one bottle I had the use of my arms, thank God. These are facts and can be verified by many persons here. J. M. Colston, Church Creek, supplied me with Hood's. I am pastor of the M. E. church here." C. W. CLAPHAM, Church Creek, Maryland.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other instead.

The Devil Chained.

There were but three golden bananas on the bunch at Garrason's yesterday, but lurking beneath them was death enough for twenty men in the ugly body of a Mexican tarantula as large as the biggest crawfish. Capt. Garrason's unsuspicious hand was within two inches of the poisonous monster, but a pair of tongs landed it in a jar of alcohol, and there it lies to excite a shudder of horror in every passer by.

Fire.

The fire alarm was sounded Friday noon and caused quite a stir on our streets. It turned out to be two small houses on Hillsboro street, both occupied and owned by worthy colored men. The fire originated by sparks igniting on the roof of Tom Taylor's house, and before it could be extinguished, competely consumed the dwelling and its contents, and spread to the adjoining house of Mike Beard, and also consumed it. Fortunately everything of value had been taken from this house. Taylor carried a small amount of insurance; Beard none at all.

The First Pitched Battle of the War.

"Our fathers—where are they?
And the prophets—do they live forever?"

A third of a century agone—June 10, 1861—and the battle of Bethel, ushered upon the arena of fight with all the pomp and magnificence of silken banner yet unstained, burnished steel, the sword unfleshed, the splendor and purple of camp and field, the first resounding note of the grim dogs of war! Youth nerved the untried arms of its heroes; beauty, undimmed by watching and tears, sent them forth to conquest and to fame.

The year 1894, 33rd anniversary of the tragedy where the gallant North Carolinian, Wyatt, sprang to the front at the call for volunteers, and bestrode his grave; where the brave Winthrop laved with his blood the soil he had come to invade, and the little Confederacy thrilled with the booms of the victorious howitzer on the Virginia Peninsula! The sharp crack of the rifle rings along the sinuous banks of Robinson's Creek, in the peaceful emulation of markmanship, and Capt. E. L. Pemberton bears off in triumph the medal of 1856, trophy of the skill of the stalwart J. D. Nott, model of physical manhood in those halcyon days, who dedicated his life to his country on that same field of Bethel, and returned to poverty and a conquered peace in 1865, weighted with scars more fraught with honor than the trappings of a king.

A few miles west of the town—grouped beneath the shade of the giant trees which spread their graceful images athwart the placid surface of water like figures in a dazzling mirror or pictures in an artist's frame—a band of Bethel veterans do honor to the august day in animated reminiscence, ice, water, lemons and toasts (not toast). These were the smooth-faced boys and striplings of manhood of 1861, who fired the gun which went echoing around the world; who stepped to the front with youthful pride in their gold stripes and their sweethearts' favors in their plumed hats—unconquerable material for the future Army of Northern Virginia of Lee and the veteran cohorts of Joseph E. Johnston; a little band of seven, commanded by Col. J. B. Starr, with gray hair and close clipped beard, a model of an old French officer, his lieutenant, Col. J. A. Pemberton, who is the counterpart of Gambetta, with his hair dyed red, Capt. H. R. Horne, Capt. J. B. Smith, the prince of sheriffs, Capt. A. B. Williams, Major George H. Hall, Capt. W. P. Wemyss.

The day was passed most pleasantly, and the party feel under great obligations to Mr. Bennett (near whose house the camp was pitched) and his family for courtesies extended.

Bicyle Club Organized.

There was a large number of bicycle riders at the called meeting at the Hotel LaFayette last Thursday afternoon. Much enthusiasm prevailed, and there was an evident desire of all those present to be of as little inconvenience to the public as possible.

Mr. T. T. McGilvary was chosen chairman, and Mr. Clarence D. Sedberry requested to act as secretary.

Messrs. A. J. Pemberton and W. H. Powell addressed the assembly, stating the object and the necessity of the meeting.

Mr. J. H. Robinson, Jr., moved that the bicycle riders be prohibited from riding on the side walks on the north side of Person street from Liberty Point to Market House, and on south side of Person street from Market House to Dick street corner; on north and south side of Hay street from Market House to Maxwell street; on east and west side of Gillespie street from market house to Franklin street, and on east and west side of Green street from market house to Bow street, which being seconded was unanimously carried.

It was then moved and seconded that a committee be appointed to draft such rules, regulations and by-laws suitable for governing such an organization, and that said committee report at the next meeting of the Club.

The chair appointed W. H. Powell, A. J. Pemberton and R. E. Barnes on that committee. At the suggestion of Mr. Powell C. D. Sedberry was added to that committee.

It was moved and seconded that the next meeting of the Club be held on Friday evening June 22nd at 7 o'clock at the City Hall.

Obituary.

On Monday afternoon last died, at his residence in this city, Mr. Chas. H. Calais, in the 40th year of his age, a son of the late John D. Calais, a gallant soldier who gave his life for his country on the field of battle. Mr. Calais married Miss Anna Maultsby, daughter of the late John S. Maultsby, who survives him, and by whom he had issue seven children. The deceased was for years a trusted clerk of the late Simon Brandt, long a prominent merchant of this city, but lately had engaged in business on his own responsibility, though for several months past his feeble health had prevented that attention to it which his natural activity and excellent business qualifications would have prompted.

Mr. Calais left many friends in his native town, he was himself very faithful in his friendships, a man of very strong convictions and of very positive character. He was a member of the Hay Street Methodist Church and of the order of the Knights of Pythias, the membership of which attended the funeral services in large numbers, from the Methodist Church, at 5 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon.

The Executive Committee of the 7th Judicial District met in Rockingham, June 6th, all the counties in the district being represented except Brunswick. R. E. Little, of Anson, was elected Chairman of the Committee, and N. A. Sinclair, of Cumberland Secretary. The Committee after considering the claims of Wadesboro and Red Springs for the convention, called the convention to nominate a solicitor in Fayetteville, on Wednesday, August 1, 1894.

WASHINGTON LIGHT INFANTRY.

The "Parting Guest" Enshrines His Welcome in Letters of Silver and Setting of Gold—A Souvenir of the Centennial in Which the Independent Company Feels No Little Pride.

Yesterday morning Major J. C. Vann, commanding the Independent Light Infantry received an engrossed resolution, handsomely framed, a triumph of artistic cherography, from the Washington Light Infantry of Charleston, expressive of the pleasure enjoyed by the corps on its visit here last August and breathing a warm spirit of fraternity and friendship. The souvenir will be highly prized.

The following is Capt. Cogswell's letter accompanying the magnificent testimonial:

ARMORY OF THE WASHINGTON LIGHT INFANTRY BATTALION,
S. E. Cor. King and Wentworth Sts.
CHARLESTON, S. C., 9th June, 1894.

Major John C. Vann, Commanding F. I. L. I., Fayetteville, N. C.:

DEAR SIR:—You doubtless may be somewhat surprised to hear from us just now, but if you will observe closely the dates of the accompanying Resolutions, you will see that we have continuously cherished the memory of our delightful visit last August.

Our long delay in sending this testimonial, demands some explanation. It is due first to the unconscionably long time it took our penman to draught it, and second to the unsettled state of the Charleston Militia just at present, —there being some misunderstandings between them and the Commander-in-Chief.

You having passed through something similar lately, can better appreciate our difficulties.

With these apologies for tardiness, and feeling assured the F. I. L. I. and the W. L. I. will both come out of the present dark cloud of trouble with unsullied honor, I beg leave to tender you this slight testimonial of our great esteem for you, and appreciation of the many courtesies extended us at your Centennial Celebration last August.

With every good wish, I subscribe myself
Yours sincerely,
JULIUS E. COGSWELL
Capt. Co. "B," W. L. I. Battalion, and Chairman Committee.

Here is the testimonial:

At the regular monthly meeting of the Washington Light Infantry held at their Armory 22nd day of September, 1893, A. D., it was unanimously resolved that a committee be appointed to convey in some appropriate manner their sincere appreciation and heart felt gratitude to the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry Company for the unbounded hospitality and warm courtesy extended to the detachment of Company B., whose good fortune it was to participate in their Centennial Celebration at Fayetteville on the 23rd day of August, 1893.

In compliance with the above resolution the undersigned committee herewith beg to submit the following letter of acknowledgement:

TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS OF THE FAYETTEVILLE INDEPENDENT LIGHT INFANTRY COMPANY,

Gentlemen: There are occasions when it behooves us to chronicle events connected with our command in order to commemorate the same, but not so with the time spent in your midst enjoying your unlimited hospitality and making friends who we feel assured will stand by the Washington Light Infantry though everything that now appears tangible might vanish as the morning dew before the rising sun.

We do not call upon the historian to record the honors conferred upon, or the courtesies extended to us, nor would we ask the poet to sing the charms of your fair women, who did all that Carolina's most noble daughters could to add to the glorious success of your Centennial Celebration.

Those who fought side by side and shared the camp-fire and often in time of war, and joined hands and hearts in time of peace, as we did at your festive board, appreciate too well the lasting bonds that unite State to State, man to man, and we may say, soul to soul.

Having once been with you, our one desire is that we remain fellow-citizens, though not in person, yet in heart; and may the sea zephyrs which so frequently pass over our city to your interior home carry with them a feeling of friendship from our palmetto-belted coast that can only be echoed by the returning rustle of your majestic pines; and may these two songs be so beautifully blended that but one sound will reach the listeners on each side of the line; and that song ever reminding the coming generations of the brotherhood existing and the friendship so long established and so recently renewed at that most commemorable gathering in your historic old city during your Centennial Celebration.

Another Jail Delivery.

Four colored prisoners escaped from the county jail in this city on Sunday night. Their names are Isaac Brinkley, Joe Monaghan, Tom Brooks, and Lewis Williams. They were in one of the two large cells on the ground floor which is divided by a double partition with a brick wall between. They broke off one of the boards of the partition in their cell and then found little difficulty in removing the brick wall between as the bricks seem to have been laid loosly with a little sand between them. They thus literally worked their way lengthwise through this brick wall for several feet until they gained their freedom. Surely this jail must have been built by an unscrupulous contractor. The other cell is the one occupied by Mr. Fuller. One of the prisoners, Lewis Williams was captured Monday morning at the house of his sweetheart by Captain Flowers. The three others have not been heard of. Isaac Brinkley is the Federal prisoner who was recently sentenced to 30 days in prison by the Federal Court at Raleigh.

L. M. A. Band Benefit.

The festival Monday night for the benefit of the L. M. A. Band was one of the pleasantest things of the kind that has ever occurred in this city. The seats and tables in the square in front of the Academy were beautifully arranged and the lovely young waiters added much to the scene and the enjoyment of the occasion. The Boy Band gave one of those delightful concerts with which it is sure to win laurels, and gain the plaudits of their guests at Morehead City. Something over forty dollars was taken in.

County Commissioners' Report.

To correct several errors in the County Commissioners' Report as given last week, we reproduce the same, as follows:

NORTH CAROLINA, } Cumberland Co. }

The County Commissioners of Cumberland County would respectfully report to the Board of Justices the financial condition of the county as follow:

Old County bonds	$83,300 00
Clarendon Bridge bonds	22,500 00
New Court House bonds	20,000 00
Floating debt (estimated)	1,000 00
Total indebtedness	$126,800 00
Interest on the same at 7 per cent. less the new Court House bonds		$7,476 00
Valuation of real and personal property for the year 1893 upon which was levied for all county purposes 58½ cts. on the 100 dollars worth of property		3,284,212 00
Tax upon the same	19,854 70
Poll tax estimated	1,400 00
Total for Co. revenue	$21,254 70
Less Sheriff and Treasurers' commissions	$1,694 09
	$19,560 61

The expenses of the county for the year beginning the first day of June 1893, and closing the 3d day of May 1894, were as follows:

Poor outside of poor house,	$2,505 20
Poor house,	935 00
Court House,	185 48
Jail,	1,598 12
Insolvent which does not include the April and May term of the court 1894,	1,255 98
Bridges,	1,989 53
Taxes,	906 50
Commissioners,	699 35
Inquest,	196 00
Insane,	68 80
Printing,	91 50
Elections,	37 00
Roads,	43 32
Juries	1,233 55
Interest on bonds,	7,476 00
	$20,143 46

N. B.—Under head of commissioners is included the pay of County Attorney, the Clerk of the Board and all expenses connected with the Commissioners, including their per diem.

Total revenue for county purposes,	$19,560 61
Expenditures as tabulat'd	$20,143 46
Deficit	$582 85

The levy for the past year was as follows: State 22 cts.; Pensions 3½; Schools 16; several County purposes 25; old debt 23½; Bridge 10 cts.; Polls: Pensions 9; Schools $1.50; County poor 41; Bridge 30.

The same levy is recommended for the ensuing years, this being up to the constitutional limit, but inadequate to meet county expense for the year.

During the past year many of the most important bridges of the county had to be rebuilt and repaired. The pauper list has greatly increased, while the increase in crime has crowded our jail and compelled us to meet heavy expenses in conducting our criminal courts.

One of the main reasons why our court expenses are so great, is owing to the fact that such a great number of witnesses are recognized to appear and attend court. Your board would suggest to the Justices who bind parties over to the Superior Court, to examine witnesses and recognize only those who are absolutely necessary to substantiate the charge against the defendant.

The board would respectfully suggest that at the next meeting of the Board of Equilization greater care should be exercised in regard to the valuation of the property of the county. While in some instances it is assessed at more than its true value, in many others at much less, as has fallen under the observation of this Board.

Sit Erect.

We commend the following from the Wilmington Star to the bicyclists of Fayetteville:

There are some bicycle riders in Wilmington who sit erect in their seats (one of our leading dentists being conspicuous in that regard); but a majority of them do not, and to these the following, from high medical authority, is commended:

Doctors seem to agree that there is such a thing as bicycle disease, and no one who sees a rider bent in two over his machine going along as if a prairie fire or band of wild Indians were after him, will wonder at it. The best position which is assumed by bicyclists, in order to secure the greatest amount of power over their machines and to attain the highest degree of speed while running them, is attended with an unnatural flexion of the spine, which appears in the region of the back and causes not only unsightliness in form, but in boys of 14 years and under is fraught with serious and possibly fatal consequences.

In those over that age the result of the stoop is to produce permanent curvature of the spine and consequent deformity. It has also malign effects on the heart, lungs and other vital organs, the free and natural working of which is interfered with by the unnatural form acquired.

One of Fayetteville's leading dentists is also one of its best and most graceful riders.

May Pole of "Ye Olden Time."

On Tuesday night last the historic halls of the old Court House were thronged with the friends and patrons of Miss Alice Mallett. The occasion was the closing Exercises of her school. The entertainment, a most select one, consisted of music, recitations, calisthenics and physical culture—also introducing the ever fascinating Maypole of ye olden time—the whole concluding with a Shakespearian Burlesque. "Les Quatre Dames"—rendered most charmingly by four lassies, fresh from the "rose-bud garden of girls." The pupils have passed most satisfactorily the very rigid examinations required by Miss Mallett, and are therefore fully prepared to commence the fall session, and prove themselves worthy of the care and instruction which they have received.

We learn that the school will re-open in September, and bespeak for Miss Mallett her usual large share of patronage.

Old Dominion Line.

The new steamships of the Old Dominion Line, the "Jamestown" and Yorktown," have been placed upon the route between New York and Old Point Comfort and Norfolk, Va., and will offer an excellence of service and a rate of speed never attained by sea between New York and Virginia.

One of the advantages offered in these new fast ships will be that passengers leaving Norfolk Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays in the evening will reach New York the following afternoon in ample time to connect with all the Long Island Sound and other evening boats and trains, thus making the most convenient and comfortable route to all the Northern and Eastern watering places and Summer resorts.

The ships throughout are lighted by electricity and heated by steam; there are electric lights and electric bells in all staterooms.

Mr. James M. Gallagher, of New York, Southern travelling agent of the Line made a brief visit in this city last week.

The Bennettsville Tragedy—

Mr Henry Breeden shot and killed his brother in-law Mr. J. Douglas Moore in Bennettsville last Wednesday night. Mr. Breeden it will be remembered, was formerly in the Clothing store of Frank Thornton of this city.

A special from Bennettsville, S. C., to the News and Courier of the 7th, says:

Bennettsville is to-day discussing one of the saddest tragedies that ever occurred in this county. Last night about 9:30 o'clock the stillness of the night was broken by the firing of a gun, which told the sad story that Mr. J. Douglas Moore had been shot and was mortally wounded by Mr. H. T. Breeden, at the latter's residence, and by morning the report had received circulation. The best medical skill was summoned, Dr. Kollock, of Cheraw, arriving about 5 o'clock this morning. Mr. Moore's condition was pronounced hopeless. It is not believed that he will live through the day. The facts are the proper subject of a judicial investigation, therefore a detailed statement is omitted. Expressions of sympathy for the two young men are heard on all sides, and the sad event is universally deplored. Both men have extensive and influential family connections. Mr. Moore is dead.

The Underwood Patent.

As will be seen from the following dispatch the cigarette machine which Capt. J. B. Underwood of this city, patented, and sold to capitalists of St. Louis, and by whom he is employed, will prove a formidable rival of the Cigarette Trust:

ST. LOUIS, May 30.—Arrangements are being made by local tobacco manufacturers here to erect an immense cigarette factory here to be run in opposition to the Cigarette Trust. The details of the enterprise are kept secret but it is said on apparently good authority that the firms interested in the new factory are: Liggett & Myers, Drummond Tobacco Company, Catlin Tobacco Co. and the Browne Tobacco Company. It is claimed that the Cigarette Trust has made such inroads on the plug tobacco industry that the formation of an anti-trust cigarette factory is necessary to protect the local tobacco manufacturers.

Not the Author.

To the Editor of the Observer:

As it has been bruited about (and, I understand, partly by one who, at the time, knew the real writer) that I am the author of the article in your paper of the 31st ult., signed "Teacher," and relating to the County Superintendent of Public Instruction and other educational matters, you can bear me out that I had no hand in its composition.

Respectfully,
J. H. MYROVER.

Col. and Mrs. Jno. W. Hinsdale are in the city, attending the bedside of Col. Hinsdale's father, the venerable Dr. S. J. Hinsdale. Dr. Hinsdale's condition, we are sorry to state, is not improving.

Mrs. A. H. Slocomb, of this city, is a Lady Patroness of the ball which closes the Commencement exercises at St. Luke's College, near Philadelphia, this week. Fayetteville nor the State could have as a representative on such an occasion no more charming and lovely woman.

Mrs. E. C. Beach, who for some months has been a very delightful and attractive acquisition to the society of this city, left last week to rejoin her husband, who is now engaged in manufacturing at Goldsboro. It is a matter for regret that Fayetteville could not permanently retain Mr. and Mrs. Beach.

The Missing Word Contest.

Those of our readers who are keeping up with the prizes of the Atlanta Constitution are reminded that a new sentence opens for each month. The following is the sentence for the contest for the month of June:

"Patiently, with the dark lantern closed and hid under his arm, he waited behind a ragged rock in the crevice next to the clothes for the ..... to return."

One-fourth of the net subscription receipts of those entering this contest will be divided among those who supply the correct word in the blank in the above sentence. Thus, if there are $5,000, one-fourth would be $1,200. If ten supply the correct word each would receive $125, if 100, each $12.50, &c.

All subscribers to the Constitution are allowed to guess the missing word, besides a guess at the cotton crop.

For full particulars of this contest see advertisement on our fourth page.

The OBSERVER and Constitution one year only two dollars.

This Summer and Where To Go?
Among the Blue Ridge Mountains—The Renfro Inn, Mt. Airy, N. C.

At the terminus of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley R. R. is situated the thriving and picturesque town of Mount Airy, 1,500 feet above the sea-level. Here on a bluff, known as "Renfro Heights," in the centre of many acres of nicely laid-out grounds, the location of the new and charming "Renfro Inn" was chosen, and its construction designed to make it a most attractive resort, for both Summer and Winter. From its spacious piazzas and each of its rooms a commanding view of the surrounding mountains forms a most delightful picture One is able to enjoy the cool, dry, invigorating atmosphere of this favored spot, free from malaria, fogs and mosquitoes, where the nights are always cool and pleasant, with all the comforts of a well kept and well-appointed hotel. The rooms are single or en suite, as required; are light, airy, pleasant and well furnished, and connected with the office by electric bells.

The sanitary arrangements are perfect and much care has been taken in this particular. This, with an abundant supply of pure water, and being situated upon the highest ground in this section, and away from all annoyances, makes the hotel thoroughly healthful and comfortable.

The roads about Mount Airy are exceptionally good, and numerous beautiful drives are found through this undulating country and by its mountain streams. The White Sulphur Springs are three and one-half miles distant, of which it is said the water is fully equal, if not superior, to the White Sulphur Springs of Virginia. Flat Rock, a short distance away, is of special interest, and a drive of ten miles takes you to Devil's Den, a wonderful and capacious cave, with walls of solid rock, entering the side of the mountain for several hundred yards, leading you to the verge of a bottomless pit.

Music, a large Dancing Pavilion, Bowling Alley, lawn tennis, croquet grounds, play grounds and amusements for children.

Rates are reasonable, and special to families.

The Constitution Missing Word Contest.

After the Constitution had footed up the guesses in the Missing Word Contest for May, it was found that 813 subscribers sent in guesses with their subscriptions, and out of this number not a single correct guess.

The sentence was:

"The five hundred pounds of gold which he had received in exchange for his treasure had been conveyed to the hiding place in the ——— field."

The missing word was MUSTARD.

The fourth of 8813 is $203.25. If one subscriber had guessed the correct word he would have received $203 25 simply for the trouble of guessing

The Constitution has a sentence for this month which is:

"Patiently, with the dark lantern closed and hid under his arm, he waited behind a ragged rock in the crevice next to the clothes for the ——— to return."

Let everybody not a subscriber send in their subscription, together with their guess to the OBSERVER, Fayetteville.

Remember, two papers, the Constitution and the OBSERVER one year only two dollars.

Rough Bicycle Test.

"Mr Geo. Fitzsimmons, accompanied by Mr. J. C. Wood, of the Gormully & Jeffery Manufacturing Company, of Washington, D. C., rode from this city to High Point, yesterday, and back, a distance of thirty miles over the R. & D. R. R. The ride was made to test a new bicycle of very light weight. The machine stood the rough jolting over the ties and trestles without a scratch."

The above was taken from the Greensboro Record. Mr. Fitzsimmons has sold nearly 25 Ramblers this season, and has ordered a new No. 9 Rambler Racer. The wheel above referred to was a 26 pound Rambler, No. 8. Do you ride a Rambler?

If not, call at A. J. Pemberton & Co.'s and examine the beautiful copper rim Ramblers. Price $125.00—all styles. To good parties we will sell on time.

Now, Why?

SHOULD I INSURE IN THE Michigan Mutual Life Insurance Company.

1st Because Its financial standing is unquestioned, having had a quarter of a century of successful business experience and faithfully meeting every obligation.

2nd Because Its Assets are safely invested mainly in First Bonds and Mortgages on Real Estate, and are largely in excess of its liabilities.

3d Because It has deposited with the State Treasurer $100,000 for the security of all Policy Holders.

4th Because Its interest earnings on its Assets are the highest of any Company in the U. S., thereby giving the largest dividends to its Policy Holders, and consequently cheaper Insurance.

5th Because Its mortality is the lowest of any Company, thereby showing a careful selection of risks, and also contributing to cheaper Insurance.

6th Because Not one cent of its Assets are invested in Railroad Stocks or Bonds or other fluctuating securities, but are in First Mortgage Bonds, at less than one-half of the sworn value of the real estate upon which they are based.

7th Because It issues every desirable form of Policy Contract consistent with safe and most intelligent business management.

8th Because Its Policy Contracts are plain, simple and easily understood. Compare them with any others.

9th Because Its Policy has a definite Cash Value, Endorzed and Guaranteed upon its face, which is always available in cash or as a collateral loan.

10th Because Its Policy has a paid-up value by its own terms, and by the laws of the State, thereby making it non-forfeitable.

11th Because Its Policy is incontestable, and is so stated in the Contract.

12th Because Its patrons are rated among the best representative business men of the country, who investigate before they invest; and have insured in the Company for its full limit.

13th Because After careful investigation and examination by the Commissioners of Insurance in twenty-one different States, it has received their unqualified endorsement.

—AND—

Since its Financial Standing and Business Management has been proved to be one of the best; its Assets largely in excess of its Liabilities; it has $100,000.00 deposited with the State Treasurer for my security; its Interest Earnings being the very highest; its Mortality Rates being the very lowest; the investment of its Assets in First Mortgage Bonds on Real Estate. Its Plain, Clear and Definite Policy Contract; its Guaranteed Cash Values; its Non-forfeitable and Incontestable features; its low premium rates; its liberal Dividend distributions; together with the fact that it receives the patronage and endorsement of representative men of character, makes the Michigan Mutual Life well worth my consideration.

The Bribery Committee.

Says A recent telegram:

The Senate bribery committee have become tired of their ineffectual efforts to keep their proceedings secret and have decided that as fast as the stenographer can prepare his copy they will report it to the Senate and have it printed. Much that was concealed from the press yesterday came to the surface to-day.

Senator McPherson stated to the committee yesterday that he had purchased 1,000 shares of Sugar certificates, but that he promptly transferred them to his son. It also developed that the Senator purchased another block of 500 shares. He said that one evening he and his son were discussing the advisability of investing in some stocks. The Senator denied that he speculated in the sense in which that word is generally used. He bought the certificates outright, but of course, when their value increased to an extent to justify it, he sold the stock for the profit there was in it. On this occasion he and his son decided that it would be a good thing to own more Sugar certificates and they accordingly wrote out a telegram to their broker directing him to purchase 500 shares of Sugar from them. This telegram, Senator McPherson said, was laid on the table, and they proceeded to discuss the matter further. The result was that it was agreed that it would be improper for the Senator to invest in Sugar certificates, inasmuch as this matter would be up for legislation and it was decided that the order should not be placed. The telegram was not, however, destroyed. On the contrary, it was sent and the stocks purchased. He told the committee that the message was found on the table by one of his servants and sent the next morning and the stock was purchased without his being aware of it. As soon as he learned of it the Senator ordered it all sold.

In response to a question regarding the profit made, it is understood that Senator McPherson said he sold it without waiting for any rise in the market, but that he netted a profit of something like $1,500.

The members of the committee say that the present scope of investigation concerns the relations of the Sugar trust to the construction of the sugar schedule, and that the alleged speculations of Senators may be made the subject of investigation later on.

It has been stated to the committee that the original draft of the schedule prepared by Secretary Carlisle is in existence and is in one of the committee rooms in the Capitol and will probably be produced when wanted.

Every member of the Finance committee in giving testimony acknowledged that he had had interviews with both sugar planters and refiners or their representatives. In every case it was shown that the planters urged specific duties and the refiners, and also Secretary Carlisle, urged ad valorem duties. The planters who wanted specific duties on their sugar were given ad valorem rates on the raw product. The refiners who wanted ad valorem rates on the refined sugars were given specific rates. It is claimed that the ad valorem rate on the raw sugar works to the disadvantage to the producer in this country, while the specific duty on refined sugar gives the refiner an absolute and fixed amount, but not quite what he would have had had the 45 per cent. proposition gone through.

The investigation committee spent more than an hour to-day examining Congressman John De Witt Warner with reference to allegations that the Sugar trust attempted to secure his vote while the Tariff bill was under discussion in the House. Nothing official has been given out on the subject, but it is understood that Mr. Warner practically admitted the statements made in the press that when he was making his fight for free sugar in the House the effort was made to cause him to desist, and the statement made to him that it was desirable from a political point of view that sugar should be given a duty. The committee endeavored to get Mr. Warner to give the names of those who were said to have made this statement to him but he declined.

Catechise the Candidates.

Monroe Enquirer.]

Many men who were formerly advocates of a moderate use of silver have been driven into free silver ranks by the immoderation of the gold monometalists. The 'gold bugs' have repelled compromise and have fought all degrees of friendship for silver. There is no middle ground left. The peace makers have been over ridden, the skirmishers have been driven back and the main armies are face to face and foot to foot. The contention is plain. One side is fighting for gold alone, the other for the free use of both gold and silver. One side says that the paper money must be redeemable in gold, though there is not enough gold to make a beginning at redemption, and it is thus made a speculative metal for the traders in money. The other side insists on having plenty of silver dollars, which are as lawful as gold dollars, so that there may be no doubt about the redemption of the notes in coin and so that there shall be enough money to put the country on a business like basis independent of the banks. The next Congress must take a strong position on finance. Nominations for the next Congress are imminent. It is the duty of the people to know how the applicants for office stand before they are trusted with power. Catechise the candidates, fellow-citizens.

To Sue the Country for Millions.

The Western members of the De Haven family, says a Chicago dispatch, are again urging the family's claim against the United States Government for the return of a loan of $450,000 made to the Government by Jacob De Haven, a wealthy tanner of Germantown, Penn., when the American soldiers were suffering at Valley Forge. After the war De Haven refused to settle with the Government except in gold, and his heirs claim that he never was paid. Fifty heirs were present at a meeting recently held here. The convention decided to open negotiations with the Philadelphia heirs, who have hitherto spurned the claims of the Western branch of the family. A circular will be sent to them asking their co-operation. The amount of the claim for the loan and interest compounded runs far up into the millions.

First Action—Second Action—Third Action.

So said the wise Athenian. We shall be wise to follow his advice in many matters; in none more so than in grappling with a cold or with dyspepsia; or in seeking relief from consumption in its earlier stages. It is absolutely useless to sit down and bemoan our bad fortune. We must act—act—act. The first and most imperative action necessary is to procure a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The second action will be to use it. The third action will naturally follow—we shall proclaim abroad its virtues.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—Having felt it a duty to write of the good I received by taking your medicine, I now would say, that one year ago I was given up by my family physician and friends; all said I must die. My lungs were badly affected, and body reduced to a skeleton. My people commenced to give me your "Medical Discovery," and I soon began to mend. It was not long before I became well enough to take charge of my household duties again.

I owe my recovery to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Respectfully,

MIRA MILLS.

Testimony from the Mayor of Sequin, Tex.

SEQUIN, TEX., January 14, 1893.
MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.: Gentlemen—I have tried your P. P. P. for a disease of the skin, usually known as skin cancer of thirty years' standing, and found great relief. It purifies the blood and removes all irritation from the seat of the disease and prevents any spreading of the sores. I have taken five or six bottles and feel confident that another course will effect a cure. It has also relieved me from indigestion and stomach troubles. Yours truly,
